1 MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

2 I. INTRODUCTION

3 Plaintiff ADINA MEZA (“Plaintiff”) submits this Memorandum of Points and Authorities
4 in support of Plaintiff’s Second Motion for Preliminary Approval of the Class Action Settlement 5 Agreement and Release of Claims, and Amendment thereto, (collectively “Settlement” or 6 “Settlement Agreement”) reached between Plaintiff and Defendant TRACKIN, CO.
7 (“Defendant”).

8 Having considered the Court’s July 24, 2020 tentative ruling, the Parties have executed an 9 Amendment to the Settlement, addressing Defendant’s payment of the payroll taxes owed.
10 Additionally, Plaintiff has provided an in-depth analysis of the maximum exposure for each claim, 11 and the facts warranting the discounted settlement in light of Defendant’s solvency issues. By this 12 Motion, Plaintiff requests that the Court:

13 (1) Grant preliminary approval of the fully-executed Settlement Agreement. A true and 14 correct copy of the Settlement Agreement and amendment thereto is attached to the concurrently 15 filed Declaration of Kelsey Szamet as Exhibit “1”;

16 (2) Approve the proposed Notice of Class Action Settlement to Class Members, a copy 17 of which is attached to the Settlement Agreement as Exhibit “A,” and direct that the Notice be sent 18 to Class Members in the manner set forth in the Settlement Agreement; and

19 (3) Schedule a hearing on final approval of the proposed Settlement and Plaintiff’s 20 counsel’s application for an award of attorney’s fees and litigation costs at which Class Members 21 may be heard (“Final Approval Hearing”).

22 II. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

23 A. Litigation Overview

24 On January 24, 2019, Plaintiff submitted a notice letter to the Labor Workforce 25 Development Agency and Defendant regarding her intent to file an action seeking civil penalties 26 under the Labor Code Private Attorneys General Act of 2004, §2699, et seq. (“PAGA”).
27 (Declaration of Kelsey M. Szamet, “Szamet Decl.,” ¶4.) The following day, on January 25, 2019, 28 Plaintiff filed a complaint alleging that Defendant misclassified Plaintiff and other drivers as

1 independent contractors and, as a result, failed to: pay wages/ overtime, provide lawful meal and 2 rest breaks, to reimburse business expenses, issue lawful itemized wage statements, pay wages 3 owed upon termination/resignation, and engaged in unfair business practices based on these 4 alleged Labor Code violations. (Szamet Decl., ¶4; Settlement Agreement §III, ¶2)

5 On April 2, 2019, Plaintiff filed a First Amended Complaint (“FAC”), adding an eighth 6 cause of action pursuant to PAGA based upon the Labor Code violations previously alleged in the 7 complaint. (Szamet Decl. ¶5; Settlement Agreement § III, ¶3.) Defendant answered on May 7, 8 2019. (Ibid.)

9 The Parties subsequently began to engage in informal discovery to understand the nature 10 of the allegations and the scope of potential liability. (Szamet Decl. ¶6; Settlement Agreement § 11 III, ¶3.) Defendant provided the complete payroll and timekeeping records for the class that it had 12 available, including an accounting of pay for each delivery/shift worked by drivers from 2016
13 through the present and an aggregate count of the total deliveries made by each driver. (Szamet 14 Decl. ¶7; Settlement Agreement § III, ¶3.)

15 Defendant also provided information regarding the releases that it obtained from certain 16 drivers during the course of litigation, including a list of the drivers who signed releases, the total 17 amount of money paid to release those drivers’ claims, and the number of deliveries made by each 18 releasing and non-releasing driver. (Szamet Decl. ¶8; Settlement Agreement § III, ¶4.)

19 In order to avoid the delay and expense of litigating these claims, the Parties agreed to 20 mediate this dispute. (Szamet Decl. ¶9; Settlement Agreement § III, ¶6.) On July 9, 2019, the 21 Parties attended a full-day mediation with mediator Hon. George Hernandez (Ret.). (Id.) Although 22 the Parties did not resolve the matter that day, they continued their settlement efforts in the weeks 23 following the mediation and reached a settlement on July 19, 2019 to resolve Plaintiffs claims on 24 a class-wide basis. Id.

25 At the mediation, Defendant presented arguments regarding its financial solvency and 26 presented its 2018 and 2019 profit and loss statements and balance sheets to verify its financial 27 status. (Declaration of Filippo Beretta, “Beretta Decl.” ¶ 4; Szamet Decl., ¶9.) Additionally, Class 28 Counsel also spoke with Defendant’s Treasurer who explained that Defendant was merely a startup

1 company who had yet to see any profits and was at risk of ceasing its business in light of the 2 Action. (Beretta Decl. ¶ 5; Id.) Specifically, the documents provided in mediation showed that the 3 company’s net income from April–June 2019 was negative $107,383.13 and total liabilities and 4 equity on June 30, 2019 was $304,973.42. (Beretta Decl. ¶ 4.)

5 Furthermore, Defendant denies any liability or wrongdoing of any kind associated with the 6 claims asserted in Plaintiff’s Complaint, disputes that its workers were misclassified, and contends 7 the damages and penalties claimed by Plaintiff, and further contends that, for any purpose other 8 than settlement, Plaintiff’s claims are not appropriate for class or representative treatment. (Szamet 9 Decl. ¶10; Settlement Agreement § III, ¶5.) The recent passage of Proposition 22 has created 10 additional risks to Plaintiffs’ misclassification claims, i.e. that the ABC test will not be applied to 11 determine whether Plaintiffs are employees or independent contractors. (Note that any references
12 herein to the Class Members as “employees” or the Defendant as an “employer” of the Class 13 Members are disputed by Defendant.)

14 Class Counsel investigated the facts relevant to the Lawsuit, including reviewing 15 documents and information provided by Defendant. (Szamet Decl. ¶11.) Based on their own 16 independent investigation and evaluation, Class Counsel is of the opinion that the Settlement with 17 Defendant is fair, reasonable and adequate, and in the best interest of the Settlement Class in light 18 of all known facts and circumstances, including Defendant’s financial status, the risks of 19 significant delay, defenses asserted by Defendant, uncertainties regarding a class trial, and 20 numerous potential appellate issues. (Szamet Decl. ¶12; Settlement Agreement § III, ¶7.)
21 Although Defendant denies any liability, Defendant is agreeing to this Settlement solely to avoid 22 the cost of further litigation. Accordingly, the Parties and their counsel desire to fully, finally, and 23 forever settle, compromise and discharge all disputes and claims arising from or relating to the 24 Action on the terms set forth herein. Id.

25 B. Previous Motion for Preliminary Approval

26 Plaintiff filed his original motion for preliminary approval of class settlement on February 27 19, 2020. (See court docket on file herein.) This Court issued a tentative ruling on July 24, 2020 28 denying Plaintiff’s Motion without prejudice and outlining the issues to be addressed with 1 Plaintiff's second papers. All of the issues have been addressed below.

2 III. THE SETTLEMENT

3 A. The Settlement Class

4 For purposes of Settlement, the Settlement Class is defined as: "all persons working as 5 drivers for Trackin, Co. in the State of California since January 25, 2015 to September 7, 2019"
6 (See Settlement Agreement, Ex. 1 at § I, ¶5.)

7 Based on documents and other informal discovery produced by Defendant, there are 8 approximately 205 employees in the Settlement Class. (Settlement Agreement § VII, ¶18.; Szamet 9 Decl. ¶13.)

10 B. Total Settlement Amount

11 As detailed fully in the Settlement Agreement, the Settlement provides for Defendant to 12 pay a Total Settlement Amount of $160,000.00, which includes any approved Class Counsel
13 Award, Class Representative Enhancement Award, Individual Settlement Payments, PAGA
14 Payment, and Settlement Administrator Costs. (Settlement Agreement § I, ¶35.; § VII, ¶8.; Szamet
15 Decl. ¶14.)

16 The Net Settlement Fund is the Total Settlement Amount minus any award of Class
17 Counsel Award, Class Representative Enhancement Award, PAGA Payment, and Settlement
18 Administration Costs. (Settlement Agreement § I, ¶19.; Id at § VII, ¶8.) This is a non-reversionary 19 Settlement meaning Defendant will pay the Total Settlement Amount and no portion will revert to 20 Defendant. Id.

21 The amount of each Participating Class Member's Individual Settlement Payment is 22 determined on a pro rata basis based upon the number of deliveries made by a Settlement Class
23 Member during the Class Period. Individual Settlement Payments will be paid from the Net 24 Settlement Fund and shall be paid pursuant to the settlement formula set forth in the Settlement
25 Agreement. (Settlement Agreement § I, ¶¶17, 25.; Id at § VII, ¶9(a).) The Settlement Agreement
26 provides for a specific and detailed delivery dispute process. (Settlement Agreement § VII, ¶6(c).)

27 ///

28 ///

1 C. Process for Administering Settlement after Preliminary Approval

2 The detailed Notice Procedure established by the Settlement Agreement will efficiently
3 and accurately ensure that Notice is provided to the Settlement Class Members. (Settlement 4 Agreement § VII, ¶¶6., 13(a).)

5 The Parties have agreed to use a reputable third-party claims administrator, ILYM Group, 6 Inc., to administer the Settlement. (Settlement Agreement § I, ¶33; Id at § VII, ¶6.)

7 D. Process for Settlement Class Members to Respond to Class Notice

8 As detailed in the Settlement Agreement, Settlement Class Members will have an 9 opportunity to request exclusion from the Settlement Class (i.e. opt out) and to object to the 10 Settlement at the Final Approval Hearing. (Settlement Agreement § VII, ¶6(e)-(f).)

11 E. Amendments to the Settlement Agreement

12 1. Amendment to Settlement Regarding Tax Payments

13 Section VII(3) of the Settlement Agreement, entitled “Tax Liability and Medicare,” was 14 amended as follows:

15 Defendant shall be responsible for paying, in addition to the Total Settlement Amount, the 16 employers’ share of payroll taxes it is required to pay as the employer of the Plaintiff and Class 17 Members, if any such payroll taxes are required. For tax purposes, Individual Settlement Payments 18 shall be allocated and treated as: 1) one-third (1/3) as wages for which IRS Forms W-2 will be 19 issued; and 2) two-thirds (2/3) as penalties and interest, not subject to withholdings, and reported 20 on a 1099 form to be issued by the Settlement Administrator. Moreover, this Agreement is based 21 upon a good faith determination of the Parties to resolve a disputed claim. The Parties have not 22 shifted responsibility of medical treatment to Medicare in contravention of 42 U.S.C. Sec.
23 1395y(b), especially since this is strictly a wage and hour case. The Parties resolved this matter in 24 compliance with both state and federal law. The Parties made every effort to adequately protect 25 Medicare’s interest and incorporate such into the settlement terms. Plaintiff warrants that he is not 26 a Medicare beneficiary as of the date of this Agreement. Because Plaintiff is not a Medicare 27 recipient as of the date of this Agreement, no conditional payments have been made by Medicare.
28 Amendment 1 to Settlement Agreement.

1 2. Amendment to Class Notice

2 Exhibit “A” to the Settlement Agreement, the class notice, was amended as follows:

3 5. What are the terms of the settlement and how much will I receive?

4 Under the proposed settlement, in exchange for a full release of claims against it, Trackin
5 will pay $160,000. Under the proposed settlement, the following amounts will be deducted before 6 any payments are made to employees, all subject to final approval by the Court:

- 7 • Attorneys’ fees: $53,333.33
- 8 • Litigation Costs: $6,500.00
- 9 • Claims Administration Costs: $10,000.00
- 10 • Class Representative Enhancement Award to Class Representative: $5,000.00

11 After these deductions, $85,166.67 will be available for payment to the Settlement Class 12 Members receiving this notice (“Net Settlement Fund”).

13 Each Participating Class Member’s Individual Settlement Payment is determined on a pro 14 rata basis based upon the number of deliveries made during the relevant time period in proportion 15 to the total number of deliveries made by all Settlement Class Members during the relevant time 16 period.

17 All Individual Settlement Payments will be allocated as follows: 1) one-third (1/3) as 18 wages; and 2) two-thirds (2/3) as penalties and interest. Trackin will pay the employers’ share of 19 payroll taxes.

20 According to Trackin’s records, the total number of deliveries that you made during the 21 relevant time period is _____. If you disagree with this information and would like 22 someone to look into the matter, please follow the procedure below. Based on these deliveries, 23 your estimated settlement amount is _____.

24 Amendment 2 to Settlement Agreement.

25 IV. ARGUMENT

26 A. Plaintiff Requests Preliminary Approval of This Class Action Settlement

27 The case of Kullar v. Foot Locker Retail, Inc (2008) 168 Cal.App.4th 116, 128, sets forth 28 several factors that the Court should analyze in determining whether to approve a class action

1 settlement. These factors include: (1) the strength of plaintiff’s case; (2) the risk, expense, 2 complexity and likely duration of further litigation; (3) the risk of maintaining class action status 3 through trial; (4) the amount offered in settlement; (5) the extent of discovery completed and stage 4 of the proceedings; (6) the experience and views of counsel; (7) the presence of a governmental 5 participant; and (8) the reaction of the class members to the proposed settlement. The proposed 6 settlement satisfies each of these factors.

7 1. The Strength and Weaknesses of Plaintiff’s Case

8 a) The Risks Associated with the Minimum Wage/Overtime Claim 9 California Labor Code § 1197 states that “the minimum wage for employees fixed by the 10 commission or by any applicable state or local law, is the minimum wage to be paid to employees, 11 and the payment of a lower wage than the minimum so fixed is unlawful.” The Labor Code and 12 Wage Orders’ minimum wage provisions are enforceable by private civil action pursuant to Labor 13 Code § 1194(a), and § 1194.2 provides for “liquidated damages in an amount equal to the wages 14 unlawfully unpaid and interest thereon.”

15 Here, Plaintiff contends that Defendant implemented a policy of regularly requiring drivers 16 to work without pay. (Szamet Decl. ¶15.) Specifically, instead of paying for hours actually 17 worked, Plaintiff alleged that Defendant only paid for the time it expected drivers should take to 18 complete their assigned jobs, which was consistently longer than the hours scheduled by 19 Defendant. (Id.) Plaintiff alleged that these uncompensated hours caused drivers to work in excess 20 of eight (8) hours per day and/or forty (40) hours per week. (Id.) Plaintiff also contends that 21 Defendant, by the use of its mobile application, would track employees’ locations and stop their 22 time clock when they were near their respective locations even if the job was not complete, thereby 23 understating their hours worked. (Szamet Decl. ¶16.)

24 In reaching this settlement, the parties also discussed Defendant’s solvency. (Szamet Decl.
25 ¶¶ 60-63.) Defendant raised its financial status as a potential issue. (Beretta Decl. ¶¶ 4-5.)

26 ///

27 ///

28 ///

1 i. Plaintiff argued that Plaintiff and other class members were 2 misclassified as Independent Contractors.

3 California presumes that workers are employees “and places the burden on the hirer to 4 establish that the worker is an independent contractor.” (Dynamex Operations West, Inc. v.
5 Superior Court, 4 Cal. 5th 903, 913, 951, n. 23.) For purposes of wage claims, the California 6 Supreme Court recently held that a worker may only be considered an independent contractor if 7 she or he meets all three prongs of the “ABC” test:

8 (A) the worker is free from the control and direction of the hirer in connection with the 9 performance of the work, both under the contract for the performance of such work and in fact;

10 (B) the worker performs work that is outside the usual course of the hiring entity’s business; 11 and

12 (C) the worker is customarily engaged in an independently established trade, occupation, 13 or business of the same nature as the work performed for the hiring entity.

14 The definition of “employee” under the California Wage Orders is “intended to be broader 15 and more inclusive” than the common law test, and than the federal “economic reality” standard.
16 (Id. at 953, 956.) In contrast to the common law, which provides the narrowest definition of an 17 employee in order “to limit one’s vicarious liability for the misconduct of a person rendering 18 service to him,” S. G. Borello & Sons, Inc. v. Department of Industrial Relations (1989) 48 Cal.3d 19 341 , 350 (“Borello”) (italics added.), California “adopt[s] a distinct standard that provides broader 20 coverage of workers with regard to the very fundamental protections afforded by wage and hour 21 laws and wage orders.” (Dynamex, 4 Cal.5th at 949.)

22 Plaintiff argued that Settlement Class Members are employees as they were hired, trained, 23 and required to perform the delivery and catering services that Defendant is in the business of 24 providing. If an employer is unable to show “that the worker performs work that is outside the 25 usual course of the hiring entity’s business,” then that worker is an employee pursuant to the ABC 26 test. (Dynamex, 4 Cal.5th at 964.) For example, while a plumber hired for a discrete project by a 27 business that does not itself offer plumbing services may be said to work outside the usual course 28 of the hiring entity’s business, a work-at-home seamstresses making dresses for a clothing

1 company, or a cake decorator working on a regular basis for a bakery on custom-designed cakes, 2 would both be said to work within the hiring entity’s regular business. (Id. at pp. 959-960.)

3 Here, Defendant is in the food delivery and catering business, which it advertises to its 4 customers as such. Plaintiff contends that she and other employees were recruited, hired, and 5 trained by Defendant to perform activities at the core of Defendant’s business. In fact, Plaintiff 6 argued that Defendant advertises its drivers as “the face of the company.” Plaintiff argued that the 7 facts of this case are akin to the situation discussed in Dynamex where a “bakery hires cake 8 decorators to work on a regular basis on its custom-designed cakes.” (Dynamex, 4 Cal.5th at 959-9 60.) Plaintiff maintained that Defendant will be unable to carry its burden under part B of the ABC 10 test, and Plaintiff and the Settlement Class Members will show that they have suffered wage and 11 hour violations due to misclassification. Even though employee status can be established without 12 examining parts A and C of the test, Plaintiff will briefly address each in turn.

13 Plaintiff maintained that Settlement Class Members are employees since Defendant 14 controlled the details of their work. If an employer is unable to show “that the worker is free from 15 the control and direction of the hiring entity in connection with the performance of the work, both 16 under the contract for the performance of the work and in fact,” then the worker is an employee 17 pursuant to part A of the ABC test. (Dynamex, 4 Cal.5th at p. 964.) Thus, if the employer has 18 either the right to control or actual control over how the worker accomplishes the desired result, 19 then the worker is an employee under part A. (Id. at p. 958; see also Tieberg v. Unemployment Ins.
20 App. Bd., 2 Cal.3d 943, 946-47 (1970) [“If control may be exercised only as to the result of the 21 work and not the means by which it is accomplished, an independent contractor relationship is 22 established.”].)

23 Borello is instructive on this point. In that case, the California Supreme Court found that 24 an employer had control over the means by which employees harvested the employer’s crops.
25 (Borello, 48 Cal.3d at 356.) “Borello, whose business is the production and sale of agricultural 26 crops, exercises ‘pervasive control over the operation as a whole.’ [Citation.]” Id.

27 Without any participation by the sharefarmers, Borello decides to 28 grow cucumbers, obtains a sale price formula from the only available buyer, plants the crop, and cultivates it throughout most of 1 its growing cycle. The harvest takes place on Borello’s premises, at 2 a time determined by the crop’s maturity. During the harvest itself, 3 Borello supplies the sorting bins and boxes, removes the harvest 4 from the field, transports it to market, sells it, maintains documentation on the workers’ proceeds, and hands out their checks.

5 Id. Accordingly, the Court found that “[a]ll meaningful aspects of this business relationship: 6 price, crop cultivation, fertilization and insect prevention, payment, [and] right to deal with 7 buyers... are controlled by [Borello].’ [Citation.]” Id., fns. omitted.” Id. at 357.

8 Here, Plaintiff argued that Defendant had the right to control the manner of Plaintiff and 9 the Settlement Class Members’ work. Plaintiff argued that she and all Settlement Class Members 10 were not only trained by Defendant, but also supervised and directed by Defendant on when and 11 where to complete deliveries, how to dress, the types of containers to use for keeping food warm, 12 how to deliver and arrange dishes for catering, how to serve food when such service was required, 13 and how to tear-down and clean up after a delivery. Plaintiff asserted that she and the Settlement 14 Class Members were required to follow a detailed list of duties and to arrive and depart according 15 to Defendant’s schedule. Thus, like in Borello, Plaintiff maintains that all meaningful aspects of 16 the business relationship-the when, where, and how of the job-were controlled by Defendant, and 17 Defendant will be unable to carry its burden to show a lack of control over Plaintiff and the 18 Settlement Class Members, under part A of the ABC test.

19 Lastly, Plaintiff argued that Settlement Class Members are employees since they did not 20 operate independent businesses while they worked Defendant. If an employer is unable to show 21 “that the worker is customarily engaged in an independently established trade, occupation, or 22 business of the same nature as the work performed for the hiring entity” then that worker is an 23 employee pursuant to part C of the ABC test. Dynamex, 4 Cal. 5th at p. 964. The appropriate 24 inquiry under part C is “whether the person ...actually has such an independent business, 25 occupation, or profession, not whether he or she could have one.” Id. at 962, n.30. Moreover, an 26 independent contractor “generally takes the usual steps to establish and promote his or her 27 independent business-for example, through incorporation, licensure, advertisements, routine 28 offerings to provide the services of the independent business to the public or to a number of 1 potential customers, and the like.” Id.

2 Plaintiff argued that she and the Settlement Class Members did not operate independent 3 catering or food delivery businesses while they worked for Defendant. A catering company, like 4 Defendant’s, hires and trains its employees in order to provide the full list of services advertised 5 on Defendant’s website.

6 In conclusion, if part A, B, or C of the ABC test is not met, then a worker is an employee 7 for purposes of Wage Order violations. Dynamex, supra, 4 Cal.5th 964. Plaintiff argued that 8 Defendant cannot carry its burden on any part of the test. Therefore, Plaintiff contends that she 9 and the Settlement Class Members are employees under the California Wage Orders and are 10 entitled to minimum wage protections, wage statement penalties, waiting time penalties, and civil 11 penalties under PAGA. Defendant disputes Plaintiffs’ allegations.

12 Plaintiff does acknowledge that there is risk associated with Plaintiff’s ability to prove the 13 Minimum Wage/Overtime claim. (Szamet Decl. ¶17.) Plaintiff would have to rely largely on oral 14 testimony of Plaintiff and other Settlement Class Members. (Szamet Decl. ¶18.) This testimony 15 could be inconsistent and fail to support Plaintiff’s arguments. (Szamet Decl. ¶19.) Defendant 16 would certainly capitalize on any variability or inconsistency in the testimony. (Szamet Decl. ¶20.) 17 Based on this risk, and those articulated below, Plaintiff believes that the Settlement is fair and 18 reasonable.

19 i. The Passage of Proposition 22 Creates Additional Risk.

20 The Settlement Class Members are primarily gig workers connected by Defendant to 21 businesses and restaurants. (Beretta Decl. ¶2.) As discussed above, the gravamen of their claims 22 is that they were misclassified as independent contractors, and thus were not provided overtime, 23 breaks, or other employee-only benefits. However, on November 3, 2020, Californians passed 24 Proposition 22, “App-Based Drivers as Contractors and Labor Policies Initiative (2020)” (“Prop.
25 22.”), a ballot initiative that detrimentally affects the basis of Plaintiffs’ claims.

26 As applicable here, Prop. 22 provides that, “[n]otwithstanding any other provision of law, 27 including, but not limited to, the Labor Code,” “app-based drivers” are classified as independent 28 contractors if the following four conditions are met:

1 (a) The network company does not unilaterally prescribe specific dates, times of 2 day, or a minimum number of hours during which the app-based driver must be 3 logged into the network company’s online-enabled application or platform.

4 (b) The network company does not require the app-based driver to accept any 5 specific rideshare service or delivery service request as a condition of maintaining 6 access to the network company’s online-enabled application or platform.

7 (c) The network company does not restrict the app-based driver from performing 8 rideshare services or delivery services through other network companies except 9 during engaged time.

10 (d) The network company does not restrict the app-based driver from working in 11 any other lawful occupation or business.

12 (Prop. 22 Article 2, section 7451.)

13 App-based drivers is defined to include individuals who, like Plaintiff, provide delivery 14 services, “meaning the pickup from any location of any item or items and the delivery of the 15 items . . . to a location selected by the customer . . .” (Id. at Article 6, section 7463.) Defendant 16 contends that, as a factual matter, each of the four conditions described above are met here and 17 that the Plaintiffs are “app-based drivers.” Accordingly, neither the ABC test nor the Borello test 18 are applicable, but rather Plaintiffs “[are] independent contractor[s] . . . notwithstanding any other 19 provision of law.” (Id. at Article 2, section 7451.) Defendant also contends that Proposition 22 will 20 apply retroactively to the class period at issue. This is an additional risk for Plaintiff’s claims.

21 b) The Risks Associated with the Meal Break Claims

22 Labor Code § 512 provides:

23 An employer may not employ an employee for a work period of more than 24 five hours per day without providing the employee with a meal period of 25 not less than 30 minutes An employer may not employ an employee 26 for a work period of more than 10 hours per day without providing the 27 employee with a second meal period of not less than 30 minutes, except that 28 if the total hours worked is no more than 12 hours, the second meal period may be waived by mutual consent of the employer and the employee only if the first meal period was not waived.

Under this rule, “[e]mployers must afford employees uninterrupted half-hour periods in which they are relieved of any duty or employer control and are free to come and go as they please.” (Brinker Rest. Corp. v. Superior Court (2012) 53 Cal.4th 1004, 1037.) In order for a meal period to qualify as a lawful break under California law, an employer must (1) relieve its employees of all duty; (2) relinquish control over their activities; (3) permit them a reasonable opportunity to take an uninterrupted 30-minute break; and (4) not impede or discourage them from

1 doing so. (Id. at p. 1040.)

2 The applicable wage order requires employers not only to provide meal periods in the 3 manner described above, but also “to record having done so.” (Brinker, supra, 53 Cal.4th at pp.
4 1052-53 (J. Werdegar, concurring) [citations omitted].) A long-standing application of burden-5 shifting occurs when an employer’s records are so incomplete or inaccurate that an employee 6 cannot prove his or her damages. (Anderson v. Mt. Clemens Pottery Co. (1946) 328 U.S. 680, 687-7 88; Amaral v. Cintas Corp. No. 2 (2008) 163 Cal.App.4th 1157, 1188-1190; Safeway, Inc. v.
8 Superior Court of Los Angeles Cnty. (2015) 238 Cal.App.4th 1138.)

9 Here, Plaintiff contends that Defendant never maintained a lawful policy providing meal 10 periods on shifts of over five hours. (Szamet Decl. ¶21.) Rather, Defendant maintains that the 11 proposed Settlement Class Members were properly classified as independent contractors, and 12 never entitled to meal breaks to begin with. (Id.) While Plaintiff argues that Defendant cannot 13 overcome its burden of establishing the requisite prongs under Dynamex, and thus has no defense
14 for not providing meal periods under Brinker, there are certainly risks associated with Plaintiff’s
15 ability to prove the Meal Period Claim. (Szamet Decl. ¶22.)

16 Defendant vehemently denies Plaintiff’s allegations and contends that its written policies 17 were compliant and that required meal periods were provided. (Szamet Decl. ¶23.) Plaintiff also 18 anticipated that Defendant would argue that there were opportunities to take timely breaks and all 19 class members were well-aware that they can and did take breaks. (Szamet Decl. ¶24.)

20 c) The Risks Associated with the Rest Break Claims

21 Employers must authorize and permit a consecutive ten-minute paid rest period for every 22 four hours of work or “major fraction thereof.” Brinker, 53 Cal.4th at 1029. Insofar as practicable, 23 all rest periods must be in the middle of each work period. Id. at 1028.

24 Plaintiff maintains that she and all Settlement Class Members consistently worked shifts 25 of at least three-and-a-half (3.5) hours and were not authorized or permitted to take rest breaks.
26 (Szamet Decl. ¶25.) Therefore, pursuant to Labor Code section 226.7, for each work day that 27 each class member was not provided with a rest period, Defendants are liable for one (1) additional 28 hour of pay at the employee’s regular rate of compensation. (Lab. Code 226.7, subd. (b); Code

1 Regs., tit. 8, § 11070 (12)(B).)

2 Here, just as with meal periods, Plaintiff maintains that Defendants failed to maintain an 3 accurate policy advising Plaintiff and class members of their right to take paid rest breaks. (Szamet 4 Decl. ¶26.) Defendant argues that the proposed class members were properly classified as 5 independent contractors, but maintains that the written policy is compliant and that employees
6 were provided the opportunity to take compliant rest periods. (Szamet Decl. ¶27.)

7 Plaintiff believed that Defendant would argue that class members were well-aware of how 8 many rest breaks they should take and when they should be taken. (Szamet Decl. ¶28.) Defendant 9 would argue, as with meal periods, that there were plenty of opportunities to take rest breaks and 10 Class Members did in fact take compliant rest breaks. (Szamet Decl. ¶29.)

11 d) The Risks Associated with the Reimbursement Claim

12 Under California Labor Code § 2802(a) an employer “shall indemnify his or her employee 13 for all necessary expenditures or losses incurred by the employee in direct consequence of the 14 discharge of his or her duties, or of his or her obedience to the directions of the employer.” An 15 employee acts in “discharge of his duties,” for purposes of this Section when the employee acts 16 within the “course and scope of employment.” See O’Hara v. Teamsters Union Local No. 856, 17 C.A.9 (Cal.)1998, 151 F.3d 1152.

18 Plaintiff alleges that Defendant required employees to incur business expenditures for 19 which they were never reimbursed, including the costs of bags and carts necessary to perform their 20 duties. (Szamet Decl. ¶30.) Defendant’s written policy states: “The Contractor shall provide the 21 necessary equipment to perform the Services.”

22 If the Contractor does not have adequate catering equipment, being 23 a minimum of 2 bags unbranded with any other business logos. The 24 Contractor will be required to place a deposit for equipment 25 provided by MobyDish. A minimum of 2 bags and a maximum of 26 6 bags can be given on time of onboarding. Each bag will require a 27 $25 deposit. If a cart is needed you can deposit an additional $75 28 and a cart will be issued.

26 Plaintiff further alleges that class members also incurred the costs of gas, mileage, and cell 27 phone service in performing their work duties. (Szamet Decl. ¶31.) Plaintiff asserts that as a 28 condition of work for Defendant, Defendant requires employees to have: (1) a smartphone with

1 GPS abilities; and (2) a car or van with an active insurance policy. (Id.) Plaintiff contends that 2 Class Members were never reimbursed for these necessary business expenses. (Id.)

3 Plaintiff contends that despite these written policies, Defendant had a practice of requiring 4 class members to use their cell phones and vehicles without reimbursement. (Szamet Decl. ¶32.)
5 Defendant disputes these allegations.

6 e) The Risks Associated with the Tip and Gratuity Wage Claim

7 Labor Code § 351 bars employers from retaining any part of a tip left for an employee by 8 a patron of the employer’s business. Such a gratuity is “the sole property of the employee or 9 employees to whom it was paid, given, or left for.”

10 Plaintiff alleges that Defendant implemented a company-wide policy of retaining tips and 11 gratuity payments made by its customers to its employees. Specifically, customers would leave 12 tips for drivers through Defendant’s mobile app. Plaintiff argues that Defendant deducted sixty 13 percent (60%) of the tip amount and split this portion of the tip among itself and its restaurant 14 vendor clients with the remaining forty percent (40%) paid to the employee. As these monies were 15 left as gratuities by Defendant’s customers to its employees, Plaintiff contends that Defendant 16 violated Section 351 by retaining part of these amounts from its employees’ wages.

17 f) The Risks Associated with the Inaccurate Wage Statement
18 Claim

19 Labor Code § 226(a) provides:

20 An employer ... shall furnish to his or her employee ... an accurate 21 itemized statement in writing showing ... (2) total hours worked by 22 the employee..., (4) all deductions from the employees’ wages..., 23 (6) the inclusive dates for each pay period, (7) the last four digits of 24 the employees’ social security number or the employees’ 25 identification number other than a social security number, (8) the 26 name and address of the legal entity that is the employer, and (9) all 27 applicable hourly rates in effect during the pay period and the 28 corresponding number of hours worked at each hourly rate by the employee....

These statements must be appended to the detachable part of the check for the employee’s wages twice per month, or each time wages are paid.

1 Plaintiff alleges that Defendant failed to provide employees with accurate itemized wage 2 statements, as required by the Labor Code, because Defendant did not issue its drivers wage 3 statements at all. (Szamet Decl. ¶33.) Wage statement penalties are “fifty dollars ($50) for the 4 initial pay period in which a violation occurs and one hundred dollars ($100) per employee for 5 each violation in a subsequent pay period, not to exceed an aggregate penalty of four thousand 6 dollars ($4,000).” Labor Code § 226(e)(1).

7 There is some risk associated with Plaintiff’s claim. Defendant contends that the class 8 members were, in fact, properly classified as independent contractors, and therefore itemized wage 9 statements were not required. (Szamet Decl. ¶34.) Defendant also maintains that all wages were 10 properly paid to Class Members. This claim is ultimately tied to Plaintiff’s misclassification claim.
11 (Szamet Decl. ¶35.) If Plaintiff’s Misclassification claim fails, so does the derivative Labor Code 12 Section 226 claim.

13 g) The Risks Associated with the Waiting Time Penalty Claim

14 This claim alleges that Defendant failed to pay all wages due and owing upon termination 15 or resignation. Labor Code § 203(a) provides:

16 If an employer willfully fails to pay ... any wages of an employee 17 who is discharged or who quits, the wages of the employee shall 18 continue as a penalty from the due date thereof at the same rate until 19 paid or until an action therefor is commenced; but the wages shall 20 not continue for more than 30 days.

21 Under Labor Code § 203, a “‘willful’ failure to pay wages ... occurs when an employer 22 intentionally fails to pay wages to an employee when those wages are due.” Cal. Code Regs., tit.
23 8, § 13520; see also Diaz v. Grill Concepts Services, Inc. (2018) 23 Cal.App.5th 859 (“willful” 24 simply means that “the employer intentionally failed or refused to perform an act which was 25 required to be done[.] Willful ... does not necessarily imply anything blameable, or any malice or 26 wrong toward the other party”).

27 Here, Plaintiff contends that Defendant failed to properly pay overtime for any work in 28 excess of eight (8) hours per day and/or any work in excess of forty (40) hours per week. (Szamet Decl. ¶36.) The risk analysis for the section 203 claim flows from the risk analysis for the underlying wage claim discussed above. . (Szamet Decl. ¶37.) If Defendant could prove, as it

1 contends, that class members were properly classified and paid for all hours worked, there would 2 be no recovery of wages and no waiting time penalties that flow therefrom. (Szamet Decl. ¶38.)

3 Plaintiff also alleged that Defendant owes waiting time penalties by not paying former 4 employees all wages owed and all premium payments for non-compliant meal or rest periods.
5 Labor Code § 226.7. Pursuant to Murphy v. Kenneth Cole Productions, Inc. (2002) 40 Cal.4th 6 1094, 1120, Plaintiff contended that break premium payments constitute “wages” under Labor 7 Code § 203. (“We hold that section 226.7’s plain language, the administrative and legislative 8 history, and the compensatory purpose of the remedy compel the conclusion that the ‘additional 9 hour of pay’ is a premium wage, not a penalty”). (Szamet Decl. ¶39.) However, the Court in 10 Naranjo recently held that unpaid break premiums do not entitle employees to additional remedies 11 under the California Labor Code for waiting time penalties. Naranjo, et al. v. Spectrum Security 12 Services, Inc. (2019) 40 Cal.App.5th 444.

13 Further, to establish liability for waiting time penalties, Plaintiff would have to establish 14 not only that the underlying violations occurred, but also that Defendant’s conduct was “willful.”
15 Labor Code § 203.

16 h) The Risks Associated with the PAGA Claim

17 PAGA permits private litigants to recover civil penalties for violations of the Labor Code.
18 PAGA provides that plaintiffs may recover previously established civil penalties (section 2699(a)) 19 or, if none were established, plaintiffs may recover default penalties provided in section 2699(f) 20 in the amount of $100 per employee per pay period for the initial violation and $200 for subsequent 21 violations.

22 Plaintiff discounted the PAGA claim for multiple reasons. First, the aggrieved employees’ 23 PAGA claims are derivative of all the foregoing class claims and the attendant risks discussed 24 above will attach. Second, a court has discretion to award less than the maximum penalty. Labor 25 Code § 2699(e)(2) (“a court may award a lesser amount than the maximum civil penalty amount 26 specified by this part if, based on the facts and circumstances of the particular case, to do otherwise 27 would result in an award that is unjust, arbitrary and oppressive, or confiscatory”).See e.g., 28 Carrington v. Starbucks Corporation (2018) 30 Cal.App.5th 504, 241 Cal.Rptr.3d 647, 669

1 (affirming award of 10% of maximum PAGA penalty). Finally, the Class is compensated for these 2 violations in the proposed settlement, and thus any PAGA recovery for these same violations
3 would be duplicative. Had this matter involved claims strictly under the PAGA, the PAGA
4 allocation would have been significantly higher. However, the Parties have attributed more funds 5 toward the underlying class claims resulting in a higher net disbursement to Class Members.

6 As such, Plaintiff's Counsel believes that the Settlement's contemplated PAGA payment 7 of $20,000.00 is appropriate. (Szamet Decl. ¶40.) See Nordstrom Commissions Cases, 186 8 Cal.App.4th 576, 589 (2010) (affirming settlement allocating $0 of $6.4 million settlement to 9 PAGA penalties).

10 2. The Risk, Expense, Complexity, and Likely Duration of Further Litigation

11 Given the risks outlined above, the issues in this case were complex and the risk for 12 Plaintiff and the Settlement Class Members associated with this litigation was high, given the 13 uncertainty. (Szamet Decl. ¶41.) Moreover, there is significant expense associated with the class 14 certification process, which the Parties can avoid by entering into the contemplated settlement.
15 (Id.) If the Court did eventually certify a meal or wage statement class, trial of a case involving 16 approximately 205 Settlement Class Members could require the retention of expensive expert 17 witnesses, the accrual of extensive litigation costs, and a significant time overlay by the parties.
18 (Szamet Decl. ¶42.) Finally, given the complexity and unsettled nature of the issues in this case it 19 is likely that any outcome at trial would have resulted in a lengthy and costly appeal. (Szamet 20 Decl. ¶43.) An appeal would result in further delay for the Settlement Class Members who are 21 waiting for a resolution in this matter. (Id.)

22 3. The Risk of Maintaining Class Action Status through Trial

23 This case has not been certified to be tried as a class action. (Szamet Decl. ¶44.) While 24 Plaintiff believes there is strong evidence to support certification of several possible subclasses, 25 certification is always hard fought and subject to judicial discretion. Moreover, in class actions, 26 decertification is always a possibility. (Id.) In attempting to certify a class, the parties would need 27 to conduct multiple depositions, including of the named Plaintiff and person(s) most 28 knowledgeable regarding Defendant's policies. (Id.) There is a risk for both sides as to what these

1 depositions will reveal and whether they will support class certification to the extent expected.
2 (Id.)

3 4. The Amount Offered in Settlement

4 It was very difficult for the Parties to reach this Settlement. (Szamet Decl. ¶45.) They 5 arrived at it only after a full-day mediation and then several rounds of negotiation, aided by Judge 6 Hernandez, and a careful evaluation of the information substantiating the amount of damages 7 reasonably likely to be awarded to the class were the jury to award them the full value of their 8 claims. (Id.) As such, there can be no doubt that this settlement is the result of adversarial, non-9 collusive, and arm's-length negotiations.

10 a) Plaintiff's Assessment of Defendant's Maximum Exposure

11 As an initial matter, it is important to note that there is a small difference between the 12 maximum exposure numbers discussed in this second motion and those in Plaintiff's original 13 papers. (Szamet Decl. ¶46.) The reason for this is that the original calculations were derived from 14 Microsoft Excel, which performs calculations using several digits more than one-hundredth of a 15 decimal; far narrower than the calculations performed above, resulting in rounded fractions of a 16 penny. (Id.) Accordingly, as these fractions are compounded for over thousands of workdays, the 17 final summations vary slightly. (Id.)

18 Plaintiff assessed the Class Members'¹ alleged full value of the Minimum Wage/Overtime 19 claim, without any discount, at $108,425.58. (Szamet Decl., ¶46.) A representative sampling of 20 data for class members was provided to Class Counsel in advance of mediation. (Szamet Decl., ¶¶ 21 9, 11, 13; Beretta Decl. ¶ 4.) The sampling that Plaintiff reviewed in anticipation of mediation was 22 taken from the total group of employees at issue, including class member as well as non-23 participating individuals who had previously entered a release with Defendant. (Szamet Decl., 24 ¶46.) Class Counsel was able to determine that about 43.07% of the data pertained to these released 25 individuals. (Id.) Thus, a 43.07% discount was taken off the top to account for the remaining 26

27 ¹ Plaintiff learned during settlement negotiations that Defendant had secured release agreements from 10 28 employees. Those individuals were deemed "releasers" and their potential damages were excluded from Plaintiff's analysis as appropriate.

1 damages applicable to Class Members. (Id.)

2 Having reviewed a representative sampling of class data, Class counsel was able to 3 determine an average hourly rate of $35.11 for Class Members. Additionally, the data showed 4 about 10,850 applicable workdays at issue, for the entire Class Period. (Szamet Decl., ¶48.)
5 Finally, this calculation assumed that Settlement Class Members worked .5 unpaid hours per 6 applicable workday. (Szamet Decl., ¶47.) Class Counsel derived a total of $190,471.75 in unpaid 7 wages for all employees [$$35.11 \times 0.5 \text{ hours} \times 10,850 \text{ days} = $190,471.75$]. (Id.) However,
8 reducing this amount to reflect only the wages owed to Class Members, the maximum exposure, 9 with no discount, for all Class Members is $108,435.56 [$$190,471.75$ reduced by 43.07%].
10 (Szamet Decl., ¶46.)

11 The full value of the Meal Period claim, without any discount, was assessed at $21,487.23.
12 (Szamet Decl. ¶49.) Based on the analysis of the data produced, Class Counsel determined a total 13 of 1,075 shifts where Class Members would be entitled to a meal period. (Id.) Assuming a 100% 14 violation rate, the total amount of meal-period penalties allegedly owed under Section 226.7 is 15 $37,743.25. (Id.) Again, reducing this amount to reflect only the penalties owed to Class Members, 16 the maximum exposure, with no discount, for all Class Members is $21,487.23 [$$37,743.25$
17 reduced by 43.07%]. (Id.)

18 Similar to the meal period claim, the full value of the rest break claim, without any 19 discount, was assessed at $21,487.23. (Szamet Decl. ¶50.) Based on the analysis of the data 20 produced, Class Counsel determined a total of 1,075 shifts where Class Members would be entitled 21 to at least one rest break. (Szamet Decl. ¶ 49.) Assuming a 100% violation rate, the total amount 22 of rest break penalties allegedly owed under Section 226.7 is $37,743.25. (Szamet Decl. ¶50.)
23 Again, reducing this amount to reflect only the penalties owed to Class Members, the maximum 24 exposure, with no discount, for all Class Members is $21,487.23 [$$37,743.25$ reduced by 43.07%].
25 (Id.)

26 Plaintiff valued the Wage Statement Claim, without discount, at $15,665.75. (Szamet 27 Decl. ¶51.) From the data produced, Class Counsel determined that there were approximately 275 28 wage statements issued to all employees in the one-year statutory period under Section 226.

1 Plaintiff calculated this number by taking the 3,848 PAGA workdays and dividing that number by 2 14, to equal approximately 275 total PAGA pay periods ($3,848/14 = 274.86$). (Id.) Plaintiff used
3 $100 for each pay period, arriving at a total of $27,500 in penalties under Section 226(e). (Szamet 4 Decl. ¶¶ 51-52.) Just as above, this amount was reduced to reflect only the penalties owed to Class
5 Members, for a total of $15,665.75. [$$27,500$ reduced by 43.07%]. (Id.) Furthermore, this figure 6 is overstated because Labor Code §226(e)(1) uses $50 for the initial pay period (not $100) and 7 puts a $4,000 cap on wage statement penalties per employee. (Szamet Decl. ¶ 53.)

8 Plaintiff valued the Waiting Time Claim, tied to the Wage/Overtime claim, at $168,192.11.
9 (Szamet Decl. ¶54.) From the data produced, Class Counsel determined that there were a total of 10 171 formerly employed employees at issue. (Id.) Additionally, Class Counsel was able to 11 determine an average daily wage amount of $57.59. (Id.) Of note, this wage was low compared to 12 the average hourly rate of $35.11 for class members (above at pg. 20, line 5) because Plaintiff and 13 other similarly situated employees allege that they were often forced to wait in between deliveries 14 while working for Defendant, and they were not compensated for this time. (Id.) Thus, the 15 maximum amount of penalties under Section 203 for all employees was estimated to be 16 $295,436.70 [171 former employees x $57.59 in daily wages x 30 days = $295,436.70]. (Id.) Just 17 as above, this amount was reduced to reflect only the penalties owed to Class Members, for a total 18 of $168,192.11. [$$295,436.70$ reduced by 43.07%]. (Szamet Decl. ¶ 46.)

19 Plaintiff valued the tip deduction claim at $31,222.18. (Szamet Decl. ¶55.) Through the 20 data produced, Plaintiff determined the total tips received was $91,405.21 and asserts that 60% of 21 this amount was unlawfully diverted from Class Members, for a total of $54,843.12 owed to all 22 employees. (Szamet Decl. ¶56.) Just as above, this amount was reduced to reflect only the tips 23 owed to Class Members, for a total of $31,222.18. [$$54,843.12$ reduced by 43.07%]. (Id.; Szamet
24 Decl. ¶ 46.)

25 Finally, Plaintiffs calculated the value of the PAGA claim for the alleged misclassification 26 at $900,000.00 for Settlement Class Members. (Szamet Decl. ¶57.) This number is arrived at by 27 multiplying 90 (the number of alleged employees during the PAGA statutory period by the 28 maximum potential penalty of $10,000 per alleged employee, which Defendant would argue is

1 grossly excessive in light of the facts of this case. (Id.)

2 Additionally, and as discussed above, a court has discretion to award less than the 3 maximum penalty. Labor Code § 2699(e)(2) (“a court may award a lesser amount than the 4 maximum civil penalty amount specified by this part if, based on the facts and circumstances of 5 the particular case, to do otherwise would result in an award that is unjust, arbitrary and oppressive, 6 or confiscatory”). See e.g., Carrington v. Starbucks Corporation (2018) 30 Cal.App.5th 504, 241
7 (affirming award of 10% of maximum PAGA penalty). In Carrington, the California Court of 8 Appeal upheld the trial court’s discretion in reducing the PAGA penalty award to 0.6% of the 9 anticipated exposure (from $25,000,000 to $150,000). Although Courts commonly exercise their 10 discretion to significantly reduce the civil penalty awarded under PAGA, the Court may also award 11 a lesser amount than the maximum civil penalty as specified under Labor Code 226.8(c): “If the 12 Labor and Workforce Development Agency or a court issues a determination that a person or 13 employer has engaged in any of the enumerated violations of subdivision (a) and the person or 14 employer has engaged in or is engaging in a pattern or practice of these violations, the person or 15 employer shall be subject to a civil penalty of not less than ten thousand dollars ($10,000) and not 16 more than twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000) for each violation, in addition to any other 17 penalties or fines permitted by law.”

18 Finally, the PAGA penalties are entirely derivative of the underlying class claims. The 19 Class is already being compensated for the alleged violations in the proposed settlement, and thus 20 any PAGA recovery for the same violations would be duplicative. (Szamet Decl., ¶ 40.) Had this 21 matter involved claims strictly under the PAGA, the Parties would have attributed more funds 22 toward the PAGA claim. However, in an effort to ensure the best possible recovery for Class 23 Members, the Parties have attributed more funds toward the underlying class claims resulting in a 24 higher net disbursement to Class Members. (Id.)

25 Per Plaintiff’s assessment, the maximum potential value of all of Plaintiff’s and the Class 26 claims was approximately $1,266,490.06. (Szamet Decl., ¶58.) Based upon the forgoing risks on 27 the merits, Class Counsel believes proposed Total Settlement Amount of $160,000.00 is fair and 28 reasonable. (Szamet Decl., ¶59.)

1 b) Defendant's Financial Status

2 One of the material factors affecting settlement of this action was Defendant's financial 3 status. (Szamet Decl. ¶60.) Class Counsel had to consider Defendant's ability to pay any sizeable 4 judgment against it. (Szamet Decl., ¶61.) Defendant is a start-up catering app and lacks the 5 financial resources of bigger delivery and driver companies to pay a settlement or judgment against 6 it. (Szamet Decl., ¶62; Beretta Decl., ¶ 5.) Class Counsel worked closely with Judge Hernandez
7 to verify the information and representations made by Defendant regarding solvency. (Szamet 8 Decl., ¶63.) Counsel determined that obtaining a settlement on behalf of the Class now, as opposed 9 to protracted litigation with the uncertainty of Defendant's ability to pay made the most practical 10 sense. (Szamet Decl., ¶64.)

11 Defendant presented arguments regarding its financial solvency and presented its 2018 12 and 2019 profit and loss statements and balance sheets to verify its financial status. (Beretta 13 Decl. ¶2, 4; Szamet Decl., ¶ 9.) Additionally, Defendant's Treasurer has declared that Defendant 14 was a startup company who had yet to see any profits. (Beretta Decl., ¶¶ 4-5.)

15 Specifically, the documents provided in mediation indicated that the company's net 16 income from April–June 2019 was negative $107,383.13 and total liabilities and equity on June 17 30, 2019 was $304,973.42. (Beretta Decl. ¶4.) Defendant's Treasurer explained that Defendant 18 did not have significant assets, was not generating a profit, and was at risk of ceasing its business 19 in light of the lawsuit. (Beretta Decl., ¶5.)

20 5. The Experience and Views of Counsel

21 Kingsley & Kingsley, APC is very experienced in prosecuting complex employment 22 litigation, and the firm has focused its practice since the year 2000 on wage, hour, and working 23 condition violations. (Szamet Decl. ¶¶65-67.) The firm is well versed in class action litigation and 24 has diligently and aggressively pursued this action. (Id.) Kingsley & Kingsley currently serves as 25 class counsel for dozens of pending class action lawsuits in Northern, Central, and Southern 26 California. (Id.) A list of representative cases that Kingsley & Kingsley has handled is included 27 in the accompanying declaration of counsel. (Id.) After factoring in the risks explained above, 28 Class Counsel believes that the proposed settlement is fair and reasonable. (Szamet Decl., ¶68.)

1 6. The Proposed Plan of Allocation Is Fair and Reasonable

2 Plans of allocation are subject to the same standard of review as class action settlements;
3 they must be “fair, adequate and reasonable.” (See, e.g., Officers for Justice v. Civil Service
4 Comm’n (9th Cir. 1982) 688 F.2d 615, 624–625, 629–630.) Here, the proposed plan of allocation
5 compensates Class Members pro rata based on the number of deliveries made by the Class Member 6 during the Class Period. The lump sum payment to each member of the Settlement Class not 7 excluding him/ herself will be determined by the number of deliveries made by a Settlement Class 8 Member during the Class Period in proportion to the aggregate number of deliveries made by all 9 Settlement Class Members during the Class Period. (Settlement Agreement at § VII, ¶9(a).) This 10 allocation distributes Settlement funds proportionally to each class member’s damages, and should 11 therefore be approved as fair, adequate, and reasonable. (Id.)

12 7. The Proposed Notice Fairly Apprises the Settlement Class Members of the 13 Terms of the Settlement and of the Class Members’ Rights under the 14 Settlement

15 Plaintiff requests that the Court approve the proposed plan and form of Class Notice 16 attached to the Settlement Agreement as Exhibit “A”. (Szamet Decl. ¶69.) The standard for 17 determining the adequacy of notice is whether the notice has “a reasonable chance of reaching a 18 substantial percentage of the class members.” (Cartt v. Superior Court (1975) 50 Cal.App.3d 960, 19 974.) Pursuant to the Settlement Agreement, the Notice will be sent to the last known address of 20 all Settlement Class Members, or to an updated address if one is located in the National Change 21 of Address Database. (Settlement Agreement § VII, ¶6(a).; Id. at Settlement Agreement § VII, 22 ¶9(a).) If any Notices are returned as undeliverable, the Administrator will undertake another 23 reasonable address verification measure to locate a valid mailing address and will promptly send 24 the Notice to the new address. (Settlement Agreement § VII, ¶6(b).) As such, the Notice is likely 25 to reach most, if not all, Settlement Class Members.

26 With respect to the contents of the Notice, the “notice given to the class must fairly apprise 27 the class members of the terms of the proposed compromise and of the options open to dissenting 28 class members.” (Trotsky v. L.A. Fed. Sav. & Loan Ass’n (1975) 48 Cal.App.3d 134, 151–52.)

1 The purpose of a class notice is to give class members sufficient information to decide whether 2 they should accept the benefits offered, opt out and pursue their own remedies, or object to the 3 settlement. (Ibid.)

4 Here, the Notice clearly explains the proposed Settlement and the options to opt out of the 5 Settlement or object to it at the Final Approval Hearing. (Settlement Agreement § VII, ¶6(e).) 6 Plaintiff requests that the Court approve the proposed Class Notice because it describes the 7 proposed settlement with enough specificity to allow Class Members to make an informed choice
8 regarding whether to participate. (Szamet Decl. ¶70.)

9 V. THE PROPOSED SETTLEMENT CLASS SHOULD BE CERTIFIED FOR 10 SETTLEMENT PURPOSES

11 Originally creatures of equity, class actions have been statutorily embraced by the 12 Legislature whenever “the question [in a case] is one of a common or general interest, of many 13 persons, or when the parties are numerous, and it is impracticable to bring them all before the 14 court” (Code Civ. Proc. § 382; see, e.g., Fireside Bank v. Sup. Court (2007) 40 Cal.4th 1069, 15 1078.) They serve an important function by “establishing a technique whereby the claims of many 16 individuals can be resolved at the same time” thereby “eliminat[ing] the possibility of repetitious 17 litigation and provid[ing] small claimants with a method of obtaining redress.” (Richmond v. Dart 18 Industries, Inc. (1981) 29 Cal.3d 462, 469.) Public policy supports the use of class actions to 19 enforce wage and overtime laws for the benefit of workers. (See Sav-on Drug Stores, Inc. v. Sup.
20 Court (2004) 34 Cal.4th 319, 340.)

21 The certification question is “essentially a procedural one that does not ask whether an 22 action is legally or factually meritorious.” (Linder v. Thrifty Oil Co. (2000) 23 Cal.4th 429, 439– 23 440.) A court ruling on a certification motion must determine “whether . . . the issues which may 24 be jointly tried, when compared with those requiring separate adjudication, are so numerous or 25 substantial that the maintenance of a class action would be advantageous to the judicial process
26 and to the litigants.” (Collins v. Rocha (1972) 7 Cal.3d 232, 238.)

27 The California Supreme Court has identified three certification requirements: (1) “the 28 existence of an ascertainable and sufficiently numerous class”; (2) “a well-defined community of

1 interest”; and, (3) “substantial benefits from certification that render proceeding as a class superior 2 to the alternatives.” (Brinker, supra, 53 Cal.4th at p. 1021.) The “community of interest” 3 requirement includes three additional requirements: (1) common questions of law or fact 4 predominant over individual questions; (2) the class representatives have claims or defenses 5 typical of the class; and (3) the class representatives can adequately represent the class. (Ibid, citing 6 Fireside Bank, supra, 40 Cal.4th 1069 at p. 1089.)

7 Class certification for settlement purposes is proper in this case as the proposed Settlement 8 Class satisfies each of the requirements under Code of Civil Procedure § 382. Accordingly, this 9 Court should certify the putative settlement class.

10 A. The Proposed Classes Are Ascertainable and Sufficiently Numerous

11 1. Ascertainability

12 Putative class members are deemed “ascertainable” when they may be “readily identified 13 without unreasonable expense or time by reference to official records.” (Rose v. City of Hayward 14 (1981) 126 Cal.App.3d 926, 932.) In determining whether a class is ascertainable, a court 15 scrutinizes the class definition, the size of the class and the means of identifying class members.
16 (Miller v. Woods (1983) 148 Cal.App.3d 862, 873.)

17 Here, Plaintiff maintains the proposed Settlement Class is ascertainable for several reasons.
18 First, Defendant has agreed in the Settlement Agreement to provide a class list to the Settlement 19 Administrator containing the name, last known mailing address, last known telephone number, 20 social security number, and start and end dates of work for Defendant for all putative class
21 members after issuance of the preliminary approval order. (Settlement Agreement § VII, ¶6.)
22 Second, class members consist of Defendant’s hourly employees, and Defendant is required to 23 keep records of its hourly employees’ names, home addresses, and social security numbers. (See 24 Wage Order 9-2001, subsection 7(c).) Third and finally, Defendant informally produced data for 25 putative class members for purposes of mediation, which confirms that all class members may be 26 readily identified based on Defendant’s records. (Szamet Decl. ¶71.)

27 ///

28 ///

1 2. Numerosity

2 There is no set number that is required as a matter of law to maintain a class action. (See, 3 e.g., Rose v. City of Hayward, supra, 126 Cal.App.3d at p. 934.) Here, the proposed Class contains, 4 based upon information and belief, approximately 205 employees in the State of California.
5 Plaintiff maintains that she will be able to establish that the proposed Class is ascertainable and 6 sufficiently numerous. (Szamet Decl. ¶72.)

7 B. There Is a Well-Defined Community of Interest

8 1. There Are Predominant Questions of Law and Fact

9 In deciding whether questions of common or general interest predominate, a court must 10 determine whether “the issues which may be jointly tried, when compared with those requiring 11 separate adjudication, are so numerous or substantial that the maintenance of a class action would 12 be advantageous to the judicial process and to the litigants.” (Collins v. Rocha (1972) 7 Cal.3d 13 232, 238; accord, Sav-On Drug Stores, Inc. v. Superior Court (2004) 34 Cal.4th 319, 326.) As a 14 general matter, if the defendant’s liability can be determined by facts common to all members of 15 the class, a class will be certified even if the members must individually prove their damages.”
16 (Hicks v. Kaufman & Broad Home Corp. (2001) 89 Cal.App.4th 908, 916, 107; accord, Knapp v.
17 AT & T Wireless Services, Inc. (2011) 195 Cal.App.4th 932, 941.)

18 Here, Plaintiff maintains that there are questions of law and fact common to the proposed 19 Class that predominate over any questions affecting only individual Class Members. These 20 common questions include:

- 21 1) Whether Defendant misclassified its employees as independent contractors; 22 2) Whether Defendant failed to pay all wages and/or overtime compensation; 23 3) Whether Defendant failed to provide lawfully required meal periods and/or failed 24 to compensate employees one (1) hour’s wages in lieu thereof; 25 4) Whether Defendant failed to provide lawfully required rest periods and/or failed to 26 compensate employees one (1) hour’s wages in lieu thereof; 27 5) Whether Defendant failed to reimburse expenses; 28 6) Whether Defendant failed to provide accurate itemized wage statements;

- 7) Whether Defendant failed to pay compensation due and owing upon separation from Defendant; and,
- 8) Whether Defendant engaged in unfair competition.
- 9) Whether Defendant violated § 2699, et seq. of the Labor Code by engaging in the acts previously alleged.

(Szamet Decl. ¶73.)

Plaintiff asserts that her challenge to Defendants’ uniform policies and practices involves common factual and legal issues that are amenable to class treatment. (Szamet Decl. ¶74.) As the California Supreme Court has emphasized, “[c]laims alleging that a uniform policy consistently applied to a group of employees is in violation of the wage and hour laws are of the sort routinely, and properly, found suitable for class treatment.” (Brinker, supra, 53 Cal.4th at p. 1033; see also Bradley, supra, 211 Cal.App.4th at 1141-1146.) Moreover, a class of similarly situated employees may be certified based on common questions of fact or law, even if each employee has to establish the amount of his or her damages. (See Bell v. Farmers Ins. Exch. (2004) 115 Cal.App.4th 715, 741; Sav-On Drug Stores, Inc. v. Superior Court, supra, 34 Cal.4th at p. 340.) Here, Plaintiff argues that the proposed Settlement Class Members suffered the same injuries, in the same manner: (1) class members were misclassified and not properly paid all wages/overtime, including tips, as a result; (2) class members did not receive their meal and rest periods as required; and (3) class members were not paid all wages owed upon termination/resignation. Because the Settlement Class Members worked in the same capacity for the same employer and were subject to the same work policies and practices, Plaintiff argues that the questions of fact and claims regarding the status of these employees are the same for each member of the class. Accordingly, for purposes of settlement, Plaintiff’s Counsel believes that certification for settlement purposes is appropriate. (Szamet Decl. ¶75.)

2. The Class Representative Has Claims Typical of the Proposed Class

A putative class representative’s claim must be “typical,” but not necessarily identical, to the claims of other class members. The test of typicality “is whether other members have the same or similar injury, whether the action is based on conduct which is not unique to the Class Representatives, and whether other class members have been injured by the same course of

1 conduct.” (Seastrom v. Neways, Inc. (2007) 149 Cal.App.4th 1496, 1502.) Thus, it is sufficient 2 that the representative is similarly situated so that he or she will have the motive to litigate on 3 behalf of all class members. (See, e.g., Classen v. Weller (1983) 145 Cal.App.3d 27, 45.) It is not 4 necessary that the class representative have personally incurred all of the damages suffered by each 5 of the other class members. (Wershba v. Apple Computer, Inc. (2001) 91 Cal.App.4th 224, 238.)

6 Plaintiff was hired by Defendant on October 10, 2017, to work as a driver among 7 Defendant’s Delivery Crew, earning $20 per hour. She alleges that she was regularly required to:
8 (1) work without being paid the minimum wage/overtime, including tip and gratuity payments; (2) 9 work without being provided meal/rest periods as required by law; and (3) work without being 10 provided accurate itemized wage statements. She also alleges that she experienced derivative 11 claims for waiting time penalties (Labor Code § 203), unfair business competition (B&P Code § 12 17200), and Labor Code §2699, et seq. Counsel has reviewed Plaintiff’s personnel file and time 13 and pay records. (Szamet Decl. ¶76.) Plaintiff contends that her claims are typical of those of the 14 settlement class. (Szamet Decl. ¶77.)

15 3. The Class Representative Has and Will Fairly Represent the Interests of the 16 Settlement Class Members

17 A putative class representative must show that she can adequately represent the class.
18 (Lockheed Martin Corp. v. Superior Court (2003) 29 Cal.App.4th 1096, 1104.) The representative, 19 through qualified counsel, must be capable of “vigorously and tenaciously” protecting the interests 20 of the class members. (Simons v. Horowitz (1984) 151 Cal.App.3d 834, 846.)

21 Plaintiff maintains that she is capable of fairly representing and adequately protecting the 22 interests of the proposed Settlement Class Members. (Szamet Decl. ¶78.) Plaintiff’s interests in 23 this litigation are coextensive with the interests of the proposed Settlement Class Members.
24 (Szamet Decl. ¶79.) The members of the proposed Settlement Class all worked for Defendant 25 during the relevant time period and incurred the same type of alleged damages with regard to 26 Defendant’s alleged violations of the law. (Szamet Decl. ¶80.) Moreover, Plaintiff has agreed to 27 serve as Class Representative and has retained qualified Counsel who is experienced in prosecuting 28 wage and hour class actions. (Szamet Decl. ¶81.) This demonstrates her commitment to bringing

1 about the best possible results for the benefit of the proposed Class. (Szamet Decl. ¶82.) Plaintiff
2 has provided her Counsel with all necessary and pertinent information. She also attended the full-
3 day mediation in this matter and participated in the Settlement negotiations. (Szamet Decl. ¶83.)
4 Therefore, Plaintiff believes that she has and will continue to adequately represent the proposed 5 Settlement Class Members. (Szamet Decl. ¶84.)

6 C. The Class Action Vehicle Is Superior to the Alternatives

7 “The ultimate question in every case of this type is whether . . . the issues which may be 8 jointly tried, when compared with those requiring separate adjudication, are so numerous or 9 substantial that the maintenance of a class action would be advantageous to the judicial process 10 and to the litigants.” (Lockheed Martin Corp., supra, 29 Cal.App.4th 1096, 1104–1105.) The 11 California Supreme Court has directed the courts to utilize the class action device to fashion “an 12 effective and inclusive group remedy.” (Richmond v. Dart Indus., Inc. (1981) 29 Cal.3d 462, 469.)
13 Normally, in making its class certification decision, the Court must determine that a class action 14 would be superior to alternate means for a fair and efficient adjudication. If the causes of action 15 may be adjudicated in a single proceeding, thereby saving time, reducing waste, and limiting 16 duplication of effort, class certification is superior to individual litigation. (See, e.g., Vasquez v.
17 Superior Court (1971) 4 Cal.3d 800, 816.) Since the Parties agreed to a settlement in principal and 18 now seek Court approval of that Settlement, Plaintiff submits that there is not as much need as 19 there would be in an ordinary motion for class certification for the Court to determine that the case 20 can be manageably tried.

21 Plaintiff maintains that Class treatment would be the superior method of managing this 22 case. (Szamet Decl. ¶85.) A class action is superior to individual litigation “when numerous parties 23 suffer injury of insufficient size to warrant individual action and when denial of class relief would 24 result in unjust advantage to the wrongdoer.” (Blue Chip Stamps v. Superior Court (1976) 18 25 Cal.3d 381, 385.) In cases such as this, where individual damages may be small, the class action 26 device is the most feasible method of recovery. (See, e.g. Lockheed, supra, 29 Cal.4th a p. 1131.)
27 In this regard, Plaintiff argues that the superiority of class treatment is evident here because many 28 of the class members were drivers, and individual pursuit of their claims would thus not be

1 economically viable. (Szamet Decl. ¶86.) The only alternative to certification would be to force 2 over 205 employees to join this action, file individual, uniform actions, or abandon their legal 3 rights altogether. This economic reality would result in a windfall for Defendant if this case were 4 not certified. (Szamet Decl. ¶87.)

5 VI. THE SERVICE AWARD TO THE NAMED PLAINTIFF

6 Counsel requests an enhancement award for Plaintiff’s valiant effort and time expended in 7 this matter. (Szamet Decl. ¶88.) The time spent by Plaintiff Meza includes providing information 8 to Class Counsel regarding the nature of the work at Defendant, compiling documents, regularly 9 corresponding with her attorneys to discuss the status of the case, responding promptly to Class 10 Counsel’s communications regarding settlement, attending a full-day mediation, and participating 11 in the Settlement negotiations and documentation process (Id.) Thus, in addition to the sums paid to 12 Settlement Class Members, Plaintiff requests a proposed litigation enhancement in the amount of 13 $5,000.00, to be paid from the Total Settlement Amount. (Settlement Agreement § I, ¶35; § VII, 14 ¶¶9, 11.)

15 Class Counsel considers this to be a fair and reasonable enhancement. (Szamet Decl. ¶89.)
16 The enhancement takes into consideration the time, effort, and expense incurred by Plaintiff in 17 coming forward to litigate this matter on behalf of all Settlement Class Members. (Id.) Plaintiff 18 will provide a detailed declaration with the Final Approval Motion detailing her participation and 19 further justification for the enhancement. (Id.)

20 VII. SUBMISSION TO THE LABOR AND WORKFORCE DEVELOPMENT AGENCY

21 As indicated on the Proof of Service, Plaintiff’s Motion for Approval of Class Action
22 Settlement (“Motion”) will be concurrently uploaded to the Labor and Workforce Development 23 Agency’s (“LWDA”) website on the date this Motion is filed as required by statute. Proof of 24 submission of Plaintiff’s Motion, all related documents, and copy of the email from the LWDA

(PROOF OF SERVICE)
[CCP 1013(a)(3)]
STATE OF CALIFORNIA, COUNTY OF LOS ANGELES

I am employed in the County of Los Angeles, State of California. I am over the age of 18 years and not a party to the within action. My business address is 16133 Ventura Boulevard, Suite 1200, Encino, California 91436.

On February 22, 2021, I served all interested parties in this action the following documents described as NOTICE OF SECOND MOTION AND SECOND MOTION FOR PRELIMINARY APPROVAL OF CLASS ACTION SETTLEMENT; MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES IN SUPPORT THEREOF by placing a true copy thereof enclosed in a sealed envelope addressed as follows:

Galen P. Sallomi
Steven L. Friedlander
SV Employment Law Firm PC
160 Bovet Road, Suite 401
San Mateo, CA 94402
gsallomi@svelf.com
sfriedlander@svelf.com

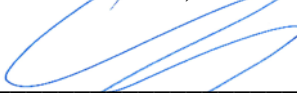

(BY MAIL) I am “readily familiar” with the firm’s practice of collection and processing correspondence for mailing. Under that practice it would be deposited with U.S. postal service on that same day with postage fully prepaid at Encino, California in the ordinary course of business. I am aware that on motion of the party served, service is presumed invalid if postal cancellation date or postage meter date is more than one day after date of deposit for mailing in affidavit.

BY ELECTRONIC MAIL TRANSMISSION: I caused the document to be send to the persons at the e-mail address(es) listed on the attached service list. I did not receive, within a reasonable time after the transmission, any electronic message or other indication that the transmission was unsuccessful. A pdf copy of which was sent via email to the above email address(es).

BY ELECTRONIC SERVICE: I caused a true and correct copy thereof to be electronically filed using the Labor and Workforce Development Agency Electronic Filing (“EF”) System (<https://dir.tfaforms.net/271>) and service was completed by electronic means by transmittal of the documents referenced herein on the EF System.

(STATE) I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the State of California that the above is true and correct.

Executed on February 22, 2021, at Woodland Hills, California.
